Nixon to Get Close-Up of New Argentine President

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)—Tough-selling job Vice President Nixon will have on his South American good-will mission will be in the Argentine. He is scheduled to arrive in Buenos Aires April 30 and leave May 4. It will be his longest stop.

That will give Nixon three full days, parts of two others and four nights in which to establish good-neighbor relations with new Argentine President Dr. Arturo Frondizi.

He is described as a tall, somewhat gaunt and humorless university professor, now nearing 50. He is considered smart. He is also considered flexible. His political record shows him to be something of an opportunist.

DR. FRONDIZI was first elected to the Argentine Congress 12 years ago as an anti-Peronista. He was his Radical (middle of the road) party's vice-presidential candidate, opposing Peron. He survived politically by being Peron's loyal opposition and Peron threw him in jail only a couple of times.

In spite of this, Dr. Frondizi had Peron's support in this year's presidential elections. He also had support from the Communists, the Nationalists and his own intransigent or left wing half of the Radical party. The Catholics did not oppose him, though they did not endorse him officially.

Nobody knows whether the new president is anti-American or not. He did not criticize the U. S. during his campaign, nor has he done so since. He has said nothing pro-U. S., either. This gives an idea of Nixon's subtle assignment.

The hope is that President Frondizi will do the right things for his country. If he has an agreement with Peron, it could be repudiated. Few people think Peron will come back. But if his ideas are followed, the worst can happen.

UNLESS SOME old Peron policies are reversed, the country could go broke before the end of the year. The trouble stems primarily from the fact that Peron used most of Argentina's 1.5-billion-dollar reserves to buy up and nationalize railroads, telephone power, and other foreign investments. Reserves are now down to 200 million. Last year the loss on foreign exchange was 300 million dollars.

Petroleum products imports alone cost the Argentine about 300 million dollars a year. The country is believed to have sufficient undeveloped oil reserves for all its own needs. But the old Peron line was that they should be developed only by local capital. The result was that nothing was ever done.

Sentiment on this is now said to be changing. There is some possibility that foreign capital will again be invited in to develop the country's resources and so help put the Argentine financial house in order.

THE ECONOMIC SITUATION is worsened by inflation from Peron's wage and subsidized food policies. The Argentine used to export over half of its agricultural products. That's down to 20 per cent now.

It is significant that U. S. Export-Import Bank President Samuel C. Waugh will accompany Nixon to South America.

Total U. S. government credits granted the Argentine through Ex-Im Bank are 200 million dollars. Of this, 109 million have been disbursed, 42 million have been repaid.

The lines of credit granted include the following:
For financing purchases of U. S.

equipment, 125 million dollars in 1950. For tungsten and other mining development, five million dollars in 1951. For a steel mill, 60 million dollars in 1955. For transport equipment to rehabilitate railroads and highways, 85 million dollars in 1956. For various other private enterprises, 15 million dollars in 1956.

Of this last amount, six million dollars have been allocated for a paper mill. The balance is still under negotiation for various private enterprises.

Horning Article In Japanese Business Periodical

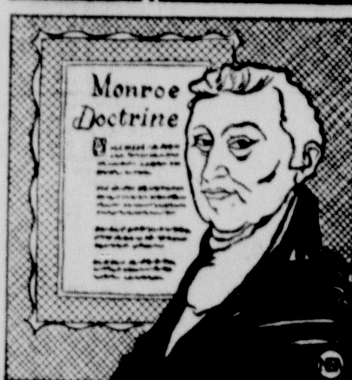

Kenneth Baker Horning, professor of Business Communications and chairman of that department at the University of Oklahoma, has achieved an international reputation in his field with the publication of an article on business letter writing in the April, 1958, issue of a magazine published in Japan, Japanese Business English.

The article, entitled "Can You Write Business Letters?" is one Professor Horning did several years ago for the Coca-Cola Company, and which has since been reprinted in several American company magazines. The editor has now asked Professor Horning to do another article for the Japanese publication.

Professor Horning also has a new article which appears in the current April issue of "Best's Insurance News" entitled, "Letter Writing is Easy as Pie," an article dealing with the basic principles of modern letter writing. Soon to appear will be an article entitled, "What's Wrong With Your Collection Letters?" for a forthcoming issue of Credit and Financial Management. Professor Horning has also completed an article on "How to Write Letters of Condolence and Sympathy," which is scheduled for the November, 1958, issue of The Christian Home, a national monthly magazine published by the Methodist Publishing Company.

Professor Horning has, in the past, written some 40 magazine articles in the field of business letters. He is married to the former Virginia Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hill of Harrisburg; they have one daughter, Kay, age 11. Professor Horning is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Horning, longtime residents of Harrisburg, and is the brother of Harry Horning and Mrs. L. N. Davenport of this city.

Matter of FACT

The Monroe Doctrine, declaring that the United States should never become entangled in the problems of Europe, nor should Europe mingle in American affairs, rightly bears the name of the president, James Monroe, who assumed the responsibility for its promulgation. But it was primarily the work of John Quincy Adams, who was secretary of state under Monroe.

Rob Station Of $525 at W. Frankfort

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (AP)—A slender and swarthy bandit with a snub-nosed .38 caliber revolver robbed a service station here of about $525 Monday morning.

Police said the bandit escaped with another man in a waiting car after the holdup.

State and city police began searching the area shortly after the 7:15 a. m. holdup for a 1957 green and white Mercury in which the bandit was said to have fled.

Ransom Vaughn, owner of the Cities Service station on Ill. 37 at the north edge of West Frankfort, said the bandit asked if he could use the rest room, then told Vaughn to "get 'em up and give me the cash."

The bandit forced Vaughn into the rest room, but the door could not be locked from the outside.

Vaughn said he saw the bandit get in the car with a companion. He described the bandit as 5 feet 8 inches, slender and said he wore a gray felt hat. He said the man appeared to be Spanish or Mexican.

Hopes to Find Son Roaming as Street Corner Preacher

METROPOLIS, Ill. — The father of a missing minister today sought his son in the streets of southern Illinois communities in the hope the youth was alive and wandering about as a "street corner preacher."

Henry J. Spray, a Center, Tex., oil worker, said Saturday he had "stepped himself" against the possibility his son, Henry W. Spray, may have taken his life by jumping into the Ohio River.

The younger Spray, minister of a mission here and a student at Southern Illinois University, disappeared on the night before Easter. His car was found on a bridge at nearby Brookport.

Spray said he came here to begin looking for his son. He said the young man had a "secret ambition" to become a street corner preacher.

Authorities at first believed the minister had jumped into the river, but dragging efforts have failed to produce a trace of any drowning victims.

Mrs. Randall Barker and Mrs. Wida Barker, Mt. Vernon.

Eisenhower Signals Major Fight Over Democratic Jobless Pay Plan

Feels Measure Jeopardizes Federal-State Relationship

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower gave Republican congressional leaders today the signal for a "major" fight against a Democratic plan for jobless payments.

Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland said after a White House meeting that the President feels the Democratic plan would "seriously jeopardize" the traditional federal-state relationship in the field of unemployment compensation.

Knowland said the chief objection to the Democratic plan, as he understood it, is that it would bring into the program persons not previously insured by unemployment compensation.

Knowland said the Democratic plan, approved by the House Ways and Means Committee Monday, appears to go "much farther than administration proposals and would very seriously jeopardize federal-state relationship" in this field.

He said the President shared that feeling.

Knowland said there will "certainly be a major effort" in the Senate and probably in the House to prevent upsetting the traditional federal-state relationship in the field of unemployment compensation.

Rites Held Today For Mrs. Raymond Dudley

The funeral of Mrs. Naomi Dudley, 31, resident of Harrisburg RFD 2 who died Saturday, was held in the Spring Valley Social Brethren church at 2 p. m. today. Rev. Carl Downey and Rev. Ernest Tison officiated and burial was in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Dudley is survived by her husband, Raymond Dudley, and her children, Joyce Lynn and Paula Gene in the family home. She is also survived by her father, Lee Duke, and the following brothers and sisters: D. L. Duke, Harrisburg, George "Bill" Duke, Pittsfield, Eugene Duke, Pontiac, Mich., Mrs. June Jones, and Mrs. Elsie Dudley, Harrisburg, Mrs. Pauline Pince, Pontiac, Mich.; her half-brother, Darrel Duke, and her half-sister, Miss Yvonne Duke, both of Harrisburg.

field of unemployment compensation insurance.

The President recently sent Congress a proposal for extending the period of jobless payments. It would extend by 50 per cent the varying periods for which jobless workers who have exhausted their unemployment compensation may draw benefits.

The administration plan would not increase the amount of jobless pay nor provide benefits for any workers not now covered by state unemployment insurance programs.

Under the plan, the federal government would foot the bill for the added payments, but states would have to reimburse the federal Treasury later.

The Democratic plan would provide payments for almost all unemployed. It would provide for 16 weeks of additional payments at an estimated cost of $1,575,000,000.

Youth Gets Life Sentence for Killing Girl, 14

CHICAGO (AP) — Robert Max Fleig, 18, today began a life prison sentence imposed on his plea of guilty to the bludgeon murder of a 14-year-old girl friend.

Fleig, son of a bakery owner, was sentenced Monday by Criminal Court Judge Grover Niemeyer. The youth admitted he killed Mary Lou Wagner, 14, with a rolling pin from his father's bakery when she resisted his advances while parked in a lover's lane last Nov. 29. He then threw her body into a pond north of the Glenview Naval Air Station where it was found Dec. 2.

Fleig displayed no emotion when sentence was pronounced. He will be eligible for parole in 20 years.

Sheriff Requests Dogs Be Confined

Sheriff William T. Barrett today said that dogs, which have owners, have been running through gardens at Ledford and other unincorporated areas of the county and that he was requesting these owners to keep up these dogs. If they do not, he said, action will be taken.

Stained Glass Windows Installed By Raleigh Church

Members of the Raleigh Baptist church are happy to have the stained glass windows installed for which they have planned and hoped for so long. Rev. C. E. Russell is the pastor of the church and it is reported that since the installation two weeks ago, 14 have been bought by members as memorials to loved ones.

Other achievements for which the members are grateful include being named the "Rural Church of the Year" for two years. Great credit goes to the pastor and to the Sunday school superintendent, Huston Heathman, under whose guidance a Standard Sunday school has been maintained.

Members of the church invite neighboring community members to visit in the church and enjoy the beauty of the new windows as they worship together with the congregation.

Gov. Stratton to Testify Before House Committee

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Gov. Stratton will testify Friday before the House Banking Committee in Washington, his office said today. The committee is considering possible cures for the recession.

Also on the governor's schedule this week is a trip to Peoria Wednesday to receive the "speaker of the year" award of the Pi Kappa Delta fraternity at Bradley University.

On Thursday morning Mrs. Stratton will receive Southern Illinois University's "leadership award" at Carbondale.

On Sunday Stratton will take part in the 13th annual Boy Scout pilgrimage to Lincoln's tomb in Oak Ridge Cemetery here and on Monday he will speak before the Independent Petroleum Assn. in Chicago.

McElroy Assures Of Civilian Control Of Armed Forces

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy assured Congress today that civilian control of the armed forces would be "fully retained" under President Eisenhower's defense reorganization plan.

In a strong defense of the plan before the House Armed Services Committee, McElroy said the "future security of our nation" depends on a sound overhauling of the Pentagon so that it can cope more effectively with the missile age.

McElroy was the leadoff witness in hearings on the President's proposal that may run for weeks.

Committee Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) has assailed the plan as one that would set up a "Prussian-type supreme high command" and open the way for a "man on horseback" to control the country—a charge Eisenhower has called "nonsense."

This high tonnage hauler cuts costs by the loadful!

Here are trucks that whittle the costs of carrying heavy cargo. They're Chevrolet's new 50H and 60H Series... with heavy-duty options that boost G.V.W. ratings to 21,000 lbs. You can pile the cargo high, but price and upkeep stay low!

They've got extra muscle where it counts—for heavy loads and hard pulls.

That's why these Chevrolet 50H and 60H Series trucks haul more payload at less cost than any competitive model. Heavy-duty options—including a 7,000-lb.-capacity front axle, 16,000-lb.-capacity rear axle and huskier front and rear springs—boost the G.V.W. rating all the way to 21,000 lbs.

A choice of two truck-tough V8's—the 160-h.p. Heavy-Duty Taskmaster or the 175-h.p. Heavy-Duty Super Taskmaster—assures power precisely matched to your job.

Make it a point to see these and all the other able-bodied haulers at your Chevrolet dealer's. And don't forget to get all the facts on the fast-stepping Step-side, America's lowest priced popular pickup.

Wants Son Out of Pontiac, Climbs Atop Metropolis Tower to Let Public Know

METROPOLIS, Ill. — Ernest Evans, 21, was sent to Pontiac Prison on June 26, 1956, when he was 19. Evans claimed the youth was "talked into" pleading guilty to a burglary charge and was given probation. He said his son did not have an attorney. About 30 days later, Evans said, his son was picked up on a charge of adultery and was sentenced to from two to 10 years in prison for violation of probation. Evans claims his son was innocent on both counts.

Surprisingly Strong Kansas City A's Show Power in 9-4 Win Over Indians

Cincinnati Reds
Defeat Phillies,
4-2, in 14 Innings

By United Press

Joke all you like about them being a Yankee "farm team," but those cantankerous Kansas City Athletics are giving the "parent club" a better run for their money than anyone else in the American League.

All this talk about a Yankee runaway isn't making much of an impression on the surprisingly strong, second-place Athletics who kept within a game-and-a-half of the league-leading New Yorkers with an uphill 9-4 victory over Cleveland Monday night.

Kansas City's hustle and take-a-chance tactics on the base paths already is being buzzed about around the circuit. So is their power which they were supposed to have sacrificed in winter deals.

Frank House supplied the big punch when he smashed a grand slam homer in an eight-run eighth inning against the Indians. The A's took advantage of six walks and an error by Chico Carrasquel to push across their runs in the eighth.

Rookie Jim Mueat (Grant, Cleveland's starter, had a 4-1 lead until he blew up in the eighth. Roger Maris of the Indians and Woody Held of the A's had homered up to that point. Murry Dickson, the 41-year-old knuckleballer, was credited with the victory in relief of Ralph Terry.

Short Day for Larsen
Don Larsen put in a short day but paced the Yankees to their fifth straight victory, a 4-1 decision over the Red Sox, while Detroit edged Chicago, 2-1. The Washington-Baltimore game was postponed because of rain.

The Cincinnati Reds beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 4-2, in a 14-inning game that took four hours and 35 minutes. Rain washed out the only other National League scheduled game between Milwaukee and Pittsburgh.

Ted Williams connected for his first hit of the season when he singled off Larsen in the fifth and just to show he hasn't lost his touch, he homered off Grim in the seventh. Hank Bauer homered in the first inning off loser Willard Nixon.

Second Ninth-Inning Loss
Mickey McDermott, who some say is a better hitter than a pitcher, pinch singled home the Tigers' winning run in the ninth inning against the White Sox. McDermott's blow came off reliever Ray Moore after Charley Maxwell had opened the ninth with a double off loser Dick Donovan. It marked the second time in as many starts Donovan lost to Detroit in the ninth.

Detroit starter Frank Lary gave up Chicago's only run in the sixth on two walks and two hit batsmen, but the Tigers tied the score in the eighth on singles by pinch hitter Bill Taylor, Harvey Kuenn and Al Kaline. Vito Valentini pitched the ninth for Detroit, held the White Sox hitless, and was the winner.

The contest between the Redlegs and Phillies was a weird one with 34 players seeing action and 19 walks handed out. Pinch hitter

Bob Thurman singled home the tie-breaking run off Jim Hearn in the 14th inning and the Redlegs added an insurance run when shortstop Roy Smalley committed two errors on the same play. Hal Jeffcoat, third of four Cincinnati pitchers, was credited with the victory. Before Thurman broke the tie, Hearn had struck out five batters in 1 2-3 innings. Don Hoak led Cincinnati's 15-hit attack with three hits.

NCAA Orders Probations for Three Colleges

Action Taken Against Auburn,
SMU and Seattle

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—College officials were served notice today by the NCAA that summer jobs offered prospective athletes will be closely watched in the future.

NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers predicted the NCAA scrutiny of jobs in the wake of the announcement of probations against Auburn, Seattle University and Southern Methodist University.

The SMU violation involved a $300 a month job as an oil scout for Glynn Gregory, highly regarded Abilene, Tex., high school football player, which the NCAA said was a "tailor made" job and not legitimate as far as the NCAA was concerned.

The penalty against Auburn was the third-most stringent the NCAA ever imposed. The penalty, placing Auburn on probation until September, 1961, was imposed for "illicit financing" and came 11 days before a two-year probation against Auburn was slated to be lifted.

The NCAA accused two Auburn coaches of reportedly offering $1,000 to halfback twins Harry and Robert Beaubie to enroll at Auburn. The two are now enrolled at Tulsa, Okla., University.

Auburn will be banned from bowl games, NCAA sporting events of all kind, including football, basketball and track, and may not make commitments for such events after 1961 without consulting the council.

Seattle's basketball team may not compete in NCAA tournaments until after September, 1960. The regular season remains as scheduled.

The NCAA ruled that the coach of the 1958 NCAA runner-up team offered monthly cash subsidies of $90 and $200 respectively to two Negro basketball players, in addition to promising the two free transportation to their homes during their stay in Seattle.

Looking At Sports

By BILL MELTON

Darwin Valter, Shawneetown high school coach, told me a couple of days ago two more Shawneetown alumni have won college basketball letters.

Al Gunzel, sophomore, received a varsity cage letter at Tulane university at New Orleans. Freshman Bob Stewart has been awarded a yearling letter at the University of Texas, Austin.

Earlier it had been announced that Garrison Newsom, junior, was among the varsity winners at SIU, Carbondale.

Gary Gieger, who played in Harrisburg near the end of the 1957 baseball season with the Murphysboro Red Wings, was the Cleveland centerfielder in the NBC Game of the Week Saturday. Playing against Detroit Gieger got a hit and walked twice.

The Harrisburg Bowl was the scene of a ladies bowling tournament Saturday and Sunday with the Skaggs Electric team taking field place honors, followed by General Telephone Co., Barnhill's Market, Harriet's Beauty shop, S. S. Kresge, Skaggs Electric No. 2, Coca-Cola and Richmond's Service.

Bowling with the first place team were Kathleen Skaggs, Wanda Lou Bryant, Mildred Dennis, Jane Hunsinger and Freda Winkelman.

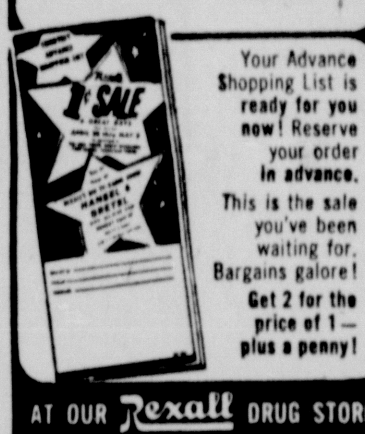

Mildred Dennis won the individual honors with the high game total of 190.

Doubles and singles championships will be determined Saturday and Sunday of this week.

Bob Taylor, the Metropolis baseballer who signed a bonus contract for a reported $100,000-plus with Milwaukee last summer is now playing with Jacksonville in the Sally League.

Another high priced bonus baby.

Dave Nicholson of the St. Louis area, also is in the Sally League as a member of the Knoxville team. Nicholson signed a bonus contract with Baltimore in the neighborhood of $150,000.

Wouldn't be surprised if a team franchise in the league would be marketed for the amount of either bonus.

THE receptionist wasn't any Miss America but her expensive suit matched the rest of the office—not loud and in good taste. When I asked her if Wren was in she gave a practiced small smile as she asked, "Have you an appointment?"

I shook my head, told her my name as I flashed my tin.

She didn't get ruffled. "Oh, dear, is this about a traffic ticket or something?"

"It's about something that isn't a traffic ticket. Wren in?"

"I'll see." She had one of those streamlined switchboards on her ebony desk, shaped like a silver airfoil, and she phoned in, then told me, "Mr. Wren will see you in a moment. Have a seat, please."

There were two doors leading from the reception room and one of them was open and a heavy-set, short guy was staring at me. He was wearing wrinkled gray pants, open white shirt with a dark blue tie hanging loosely around his fat neck. He had a good tan on his face but strictly the kind that comes from a sun lamp. He looked more like a working foreman than a boss, yet I knew he was Wren.

We stared at each other for a second and he seemed annoyed. "All right, come in," he said in a weary voice, and walked back into his office, moving with the clumsy grace of a guy who has taken on weight in his middle years.

His office was a sloppy mess.

"Are you Mr. Edwin Wren?"

He nodded.

"I'm Detective David—"

"I know who you are." He leaned back in his swivel chair, rocking slightly, and watched me as he chewed his sandwich thoroughly. He looked the perfect picture of an overworked small businessman.

I let him work me over with his eyes. He brushed crumbs from his mustache, said, "You're just a kid with a badge." His voice wasn't nasty, just weary. "Which would you rather see, my birth certificate or my badge?"

"Aren't you overdoing things, Mr. Wintino?" he asked, putting on his glasses. They were powerful lenses and made his eyes look large and soft, what they say a cow's eyes look like.

"I don't know, what am I overdoing?"

"I commend your thoroughness in tracing me, but as the Data men told you yesterday, we haven't broken any laws and the whole business of this silly girl writing a—"

"I'm not here about that," I cut in, surprised the Data lads yelled to a client. "I'm here to ask about a $4,000.75 check you made out to a Francis Parker on April 2."

WREN asked, "And why is the police department interested in that?" his voice was almost asleep.

"You tell me, Mr. Wren," I told him, trying to sound just as casual. "I traced the check to you through a bank account under the phony name of Francis Parker. His picture has been in the papers—you certainly know that Parker is a retired cop who was murdered a few days ago."

He said, "I barely glance at the papers but I did see a minor headline about a shooting. Still, exactly why are you here, why is a business check of mine official police business?"

"I'm doing this on my own time, Mr. Wren, so I would appreciate if you'd stop fencing. An ex-cop is murdered, we find four thousand in cash in his house and a bankbook. You gave the dead man the money."

"Because I had hired this ex-cop to do some work for me. He did it and I paid him."

"What sort of work did he do for you?"

WREN lit his pipe again before he said, "Detective work. We'd heard rumors of Miss Henderson's article and we wanted to learn who the author was, where she lived, various details. Frankly at that stage we didn't even want a known private agency on the case. One night I met this retired policeman in a bar, we got to talking over some beers. It occurred to me he was the man for our job. I hired him on the spot."

"He didn't have a license for private work."

Wren smiled. "That didn't seem to upset either of us."

"And he found Miss Henderson for you?"

"Yes."

"You paid him four grand for that? What was the 75 cents for?"

Wren puffed hard on his pipe, said over the smoke, "I'm afraid the entire transaction ended on a sour note. Mr. Parker—he insisted he be called and paid under that name, to avoid taxes I suppose, although I never asked him—anyway, Mr. Parker located the writer within a few days. We had agreed upon payment of $1,000 plus modest expenses, if any. I then suggested to Mr. Parker he start—let's use the word harass—that he start harassing Miss Henderson. He refused. The truth is he turned about and bluntly threatened me with outright blackmail: he wanted $4,000 or he would sell his story to Miss Henderson. I had no choice, I paid." Wren slipped me a quick smile. "Mr. Parker was not without a sense of humor, he insisted 75 cents be added for 'expenses'—three subway fares and three phone calls. I am aware what I am telling you leaves me open to more blackmail, but I have confidence in your honest young face."
